What a great experience I have had these past two years knowing and interacting with RISD students! There is little question in my mind about the quality, spontaneity, sensitivity, and creative imagination of the RISD student body. While I know RISD is a venerable institution, it is also committed to the development of each aspiring visual artist. I hope that each student felt this experience.

May each graduating student achieve and enjoy the very most in shaping and directing the world and the society in which we live, work, and play!

Thomas F. Schutte
President

I've read that you're the generation that buys fresh flowers and vintage champagne for yourselves (not for each other). An excellent sign and an admirable priority. Posies and bubbly are pleasures of the senses that don't last—lovely! You're also supposed to be a conservative group. Not bad! You have learned to restore and conserve old buildings, and how to maintain arts and crafts taught through traditions. In our mobile and wasteful society such forms need to be protected. Artists are charged with the privilege. In this regard, our museum, our library and our campus are united with all our studios—united with you in your taste for civility.

As a member of the commencement planning committee, I have been urging, with no success and to no avail, the name Jacques Cousteau of Calypso fame—as possible commencent speaker. He's scholary and romantic, but also, a conservative, that is, a conservationist. At the Ocean State Theatre (formerly the Lowe's State, a recycled and restored showboat in a salty state) what more appropiate theme than the need for courtesy toward our ultimate past source, the Ocean?

Others may criticize the caution they perceive among you. I applaud it. Artists not only seek to create "new " ways of seeing, they also remind us that we see with the eyes, hear with the ears, understand with the words, of artists before us. Have we worshipped the production of unconsidered novelty? Many of our students and graduates have added immensely to our RISD neighborhood by rediscovering what is here, stripping away formica from good masonry walls, seeking roots in space as well as time, things as well as concepts. Art like nature is made not only of generosity but also thrift. Not only of change but stability. Not only of idea but of matter.

Not only of the present but of the past. 1985 is the fortieth anniversary of the end of World War II. Leaders of the West have been strangely reluctant to conserve a historical moment. They are mistaken to ignore it. The sculptors who marked the liberation invested rock with meaning and memory. We betray the stones and their inscriptions.

If you are a conservative generation, revel in it. Pursue it. Explore it. The world over, people cry the need for protection of arts and buildings, land, air and water, from ravages of what we too often call "progress." We have become rightly cautious of political slogans and promises. Artists trust the work of their own hands and the truth of their own hearts. Flowers on your tables and champagne in your glasses are not a bad symbol of humility with style—a down-to-earth humor about the day you seize, grasp, and celebrate. Your class has charmed me and taught me that your conservatism is really an exciting and challenging philosophy. You will not abandon the word "conservative" to people with no regard for art, nature and history. You will claim it for yourselves and deepen its meaning. Maybe knowledge, sympathy and respect may be found within the word and you can live richly and spiritually with it. With this hope and faith, here's Dom Perignon and orchids in Lalique to you all!

Love, Mike Fink

The only thing which makes it possible for us to regard the world we live in without disgust, is the beauty which now and then men create out of chaos. The pictures they print, the music they compose, the books they write, and the lives they lead.

Of all of these, the richest beauty is a life well lived. That is the perfect work of art.

I lay in a two dimensional unreality. I am alone. I see strangers in familiar faces, some lay above, the rest below. Only the future can tell, in another world. Where will I be, who with. Is there love - lust? To think its a crime to love another in some places. Why? Fucked up world. I hear whispers and chuckles I am not meant to hear. Hurt. A brother, A father, A lover, A best friend. All different, all the same. Painfully Poetic and full of shit, where life begins, life ends. Tomorrow will come, and I will be all better. Its really amazing how spoken words enter one void and remain for an eternity, yet written words hardly go unnoticed.

And Paul stood in the midst of the Areopagus and said "Men of Athens, I observe that you are religious in all respects. For while I was passing through and examining the objects of your worship, I also found an alter with this inscription, 'TO AN UNKNOWN GOD.' What therefore you worship in ignorance, this I proclaim to you. The God who made the world and all things in it, since He is Lord of heaven and earth, does not dwell in temples made with human hands; neither is He served by human hands, as though He needed anything, since He Himself gives to all life and breath and all things; and He made from one, every nation of mankind to live on all the face of the earth, having determined their appointed times, and the bounderies of their habitation, that they should seek God, if perhaps they might grope for Him and find Him, though He is not far from each one of us; for in Him we live and move and exist, as even some of your own poets have said, 'For we also are His offspring.' Being then the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Divine nature is like gold or silver or stone, an image formed by the art and thought of man. Therefore having overlooked the times of ignorance, God is now declaring to men that all everywhere should repent, because He has fixed a day in which He will judge the world in righteousness through a Man whom He has appointed, having furnished proof to all men by raising Him from the dead."
